Bay ok's district

By BRENT MACEY

Like two people considering entering a three-legged race together, the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are viewing each other as possible teammates in a race to resolve the wastewater issue.

Last week, Waveland approved a resolution to join the Waveland Regional Wastewater District, a management scheme for Hancock County that was approved by the state legislature several years ago.

Approximately one week later on Tuesday, the Bay Council also agreed to join the same district.

An agreement for the union, drafted by Bay Attorney Joseph Gex in conjunction with Waveland City Attorney Lucien Gex, had been considered by Bay officials in workshop sessions this past week.

Several alterations and additions were made during the following week of discussion before final approval of the agreement was granted Tuesday.

The first change in the contract concerned the name of the district.

The district, through legislative action, is entitled the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

During a meeting last week Bay Councilmen agreed that they did not like having the name Waveland included in the title.

In the agreement approved Tuesday, a clause was added to allow the district's name to be amended to read the Hancock County Regional Wastewater Management District.

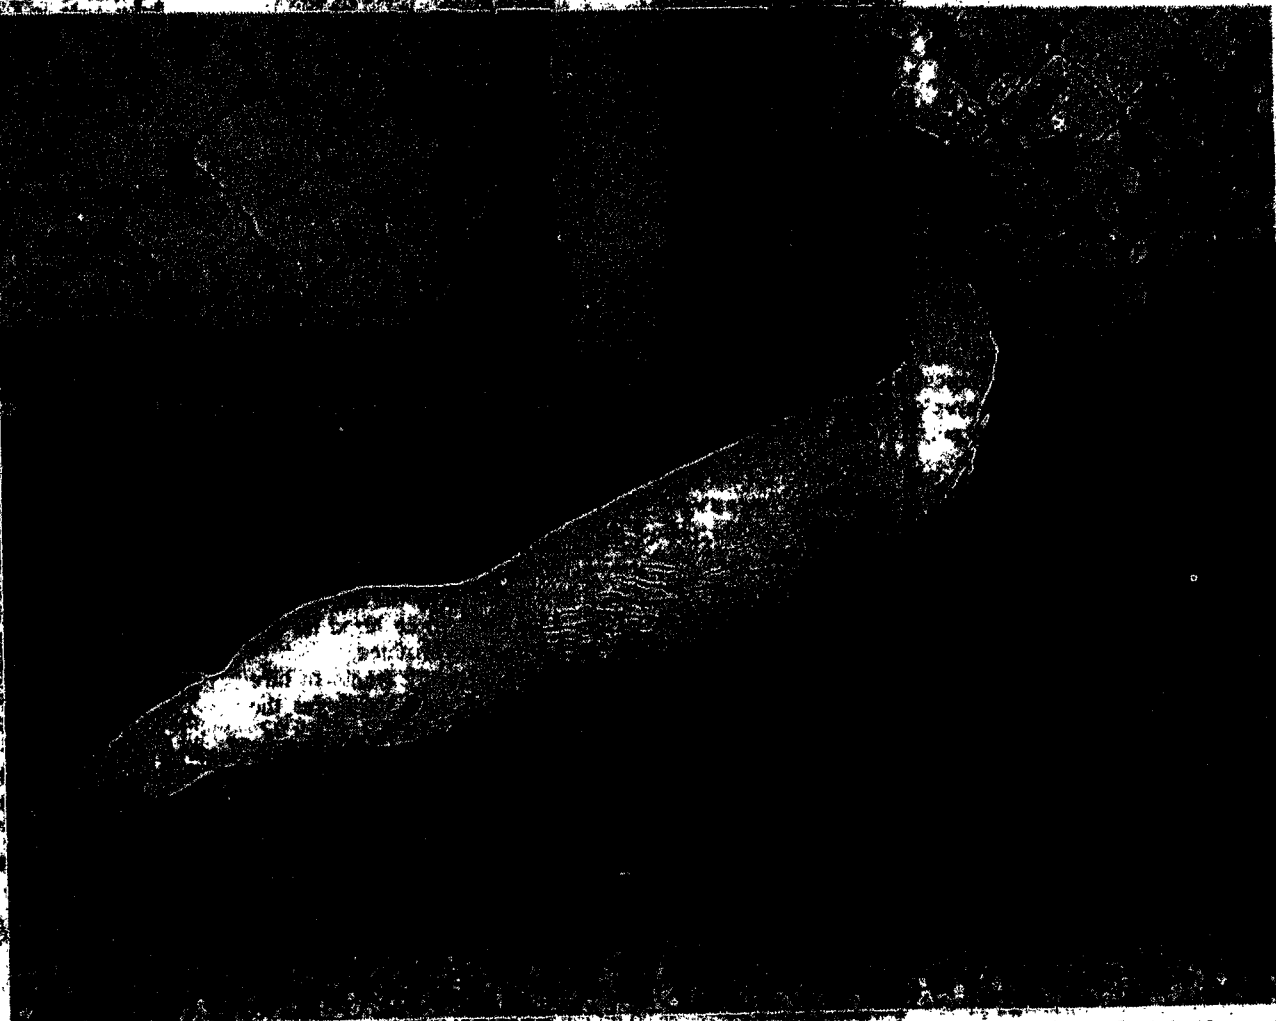

Another alteration approved Tuesday deleted the amount Bay St. Louis proposes to pay for an entrance to the district.

News Brief

In a court case, Bay St. Louis City Council ordered back by Circuit Court Judge J. C. McCallister a writ of mandamus to compel the Bay St. Louis City Council to take action on a resolution to join the Hancock County Regional Wastewater Management District.

The court case was filed by the Bay St. Louis City Council against the Hancock County Regional Wastewater Management District.

BACK YARD FIND—A Bay St. Louis family recently discovered a Silver Pheasant (Lophura nycthemera) in their back yard. Guy Farnell, curator of birds at the Audubon Park Zoo in New Orleans, Tuesday said that type of bird is frequently housed in zoos and not considered a rare fowl, but can only be bred in this country in specially controlled conditions and are not found in the wild here. The Silver Pheasant originated in the mountainous southeast Asia from the Himalayas to southern China and its image was embroidered on Chinese mandarin robes as long as 500 years ago. The ornamental birds are black and white with bright red faces and feet. The Bay family does not know where the bird came from or who owns it. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

PASS PLANT BURNS—Flames leap from the TER Chemicals, Inc. plant at the Pass Christian Industrial Seaway. Saturday night firefighters are thwarted by towering flames consuming some one million pounds of wax in a storage building. Firefighters from seven area departments kept the fire from spreading to nearby storage tanks, rail tank cars and office buildings. Burning wax is also shown burning in nearby ditcher. Investigators are now attempting to determine origin of the fire which caused between $500,000 and $1 million in damage, injured seven firefighters and temporarily closed the wax processing plant. Workshop illegal

By BRENT MACEY

Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Attorney Lucien Gex advised board members Monday that a workshop meeting scheduled by trustees for Wednesday would be illegal.

As a result the board canceled the workshop and agreed to call a special session at a future date.

Superintendent J.D. McCullough stated Tuesday that the press and public would be notified of the special meeting.

The board has yet to finalize the 1962-63 school year budget. And when they met Monday during a regular meeting in the Superintendent's office, they set Wednesday as a date to discuss the finances.

Board President Walter Turcotte informed the press and public they would not be allowed to attend the workshop.

However, Wednesday, Trustee James Ginn claimed Gex advised board members after the Monday meeting adjourned that the meeting would be against the law.

"He advised us that we couldn't have a closed meeting unless we went into executive session," Ginn said.

Gex's advice to board members occurred after some members of the press had left the meeting.

News of the decision to cancel the workshop meeting was not learned until Tuesday.

In other business at the Monday meeting, the board agreed to continue a policy allowing bids to be opened during public meetings.

Breaux to chair United Way drive

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Standard Community resident will chair the Hancock County United Way's annual fund raising drive which is slated to begin Sept. 1.

The organization's Board of Directors recently named Louis J. Breaux III, 54, chairman of the 1962 drive.

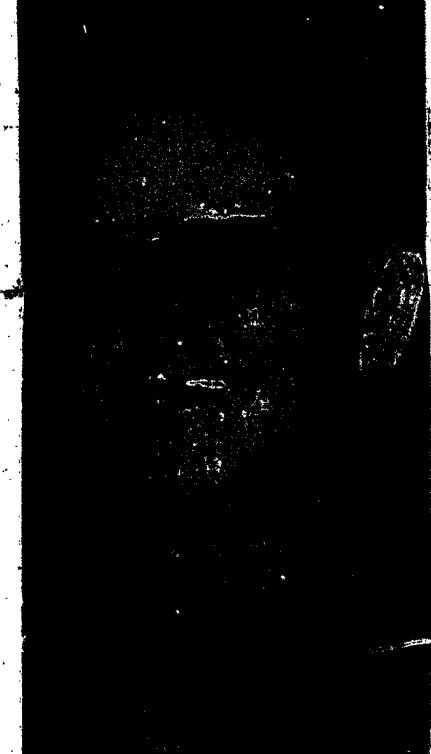

In accepting the chairmanship, Breaux stated, "I hope everyone will contribute to the campaign because all the United Way agencies are worthwhile organizations which serve our community in some way."

"Giving and sharing is part of our American way of life and is a privilege we all should take part in," he said.

"I look forward to working with our United Volunteers and meeting people in Hancock during this fund raising effort," Breaux added.

He is owner of Breaux's Services, Inc. of Kiln, a part-time dairyman and a Franklin, La. native who moved to Hancock in 1957.

Investigators probing Pass wax plant blaze

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Tons of wax flowed and burned like molten lava as firefighters fought a Saturday night blaze at TER Chemicals, Inc. in Pass Christian.

Fire Chief George Mixon of the Pass Fire Department Wednesday reported an investigative firm is now inspecting a greasolator in a northeast section of the Pass Christian Industrial Seaway plant to determine cause of the seven-alarm fire.

TER's insurance company has asked a professional insurance investigative association which probes large fires to determine what caused the blaze, he explained.

Ironically, a similar fire erupted about 4:30 p.m. at Chemfax, Inc. on Third Street, Bay, adjacent to the TER plant, which was destroyed by explosion and fire.

Saturday night and Tuesday afternoon fires," said Harrison County Fire Director Ben Clark.

Mixon noted, however, the insurance investigators will issue a warning to similar plants across the nation if a defect is found in production hardware or recommend changes in plant equipment to avoid another fire.

Some 50 firefighters from seven area departments fought the blaze reported at 8:10 p.m. and controlled the fire at about 11 p.m., Mixon reported.

He said Chief Dwayne Mallard of the Henderson Point Volunteer Fire Department was treated at Gulfport Memorial Hospital for heat exhaustion and chest pains, then released that evening.

Six firefighters were injured and treated at the scene including five men suffering heat exhaustion. One sustained a cut on one hand, Mixon stated.

Effective And Tasty

'The Pill' For Dogs

You may have heard that there's a birth control pill for dogs, but did you know that it tastes good too? Veterinary researchers have found that a little pill is proving to be a real "taste-treat" for female dogs.

The canine birth control pill, Ovaban® is certainly a treat for concerned dog owners, particularly for those who wish to breed their animals sometime in the future. It is a convenient, effective alternative to surgically spaying your animal.

Developed by Schering Veterinary, a leading manufacturer of animal health and veterinary products, Ovaban, an oral contraceptive, is the only canine birth control pill currently approved for use in breeding animals. In the seven years since its U.S. introduction, Ovaban has proven to be a safe, reversible and dependable method for controlling a female dog's heat cycle.

It works by creating a hormonal excess in the bloodstream, which signals the brain to shut down production of the heat-inducing chemical. Unlike human birth control pills, Ovaban is given once a day for only eight days, beginning at the first sign of heat. Treatment is not repeated until the animal again goes into heat, usually in about six months. When you wish to breed your dog, simply do not repeat the treatment. Your animal will be ready for breeding at her next heat cycle.

Dogs of all sizes, ages, and breeds have used the product successfully. In addition to birth control, Ovaban is effective in alleviating the symptoms of false pregnancy in dogs and in suppressing the heat cycle, a valuable consideration for show, field trial and other sporting animals.

Ovaban is available exclusively through your veterinarian.

DIET VS. CANCER

After two years of studying the relationship between what people eat and their risk of cancer as a result of their food choices, the prestigious National Academy of Sciences has released its report that largely champions the basic advice of nutritionists: for at least the past half century.

Though the recently released report of the group does not represent unanimity among members of the peer group, its study of the evidence in the relationship between food choices and personal risks of cancer seem to bear enough scientific credibility to steer conscientious eaters in the direction of fewer health risks.

in their food and beverage choices.

The report bears all findings for the literally well rounded persons who can't quite face up to slicing away all the animal fat from their meals, and who additionally wonder if it's worth spotting the scale if it's hardly worth looking to the mouth in the first place.

The report recommends a reduction in consumption of both saturated and unsaturated fats in the average U.S. diet. The target level is a reduction from the present near 40 percent of total calories from fat to 30 percent.

Vegetable and fruit lovers have every good reason to rejoice in anticipation of their next meal of turnip greens, butterbeans, mouth-watering ears of corn, or the varied salad concoctions.

The study group emphasized the wholesomeness of fruits, vegetables, and whole grain cereal products which contain Vitamin A and those that are members of the family of plants that produce heads—such as cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower and brussels sprouts.

The group associated these with reductions in the incidence of cancer at several sites in human bodies.

One major controversial aspect of the report is a suggestion to take it easier on foods preserved by salt-curing or smoking, hinting that groups which frequently consume these products have a greater incidence of cancer in the esophagus and stomach.

The liquor-combined-with-cigarette crowd caught it squarely from the blue ribbon commission. The smoking-drinking combo was cited for an apparent increased risk of cancer of the mouth, larynx, esophagus and respiratory tract.

The beer drinkers were not let off the hook either as excessive beer drinking was associated with an increased risk of rectal cancer.

A sexually discriminatory aspect of the report centered on an overall conclusion that evidence studied by the committee suggests that cancers are influenced by dietary patterns, and food options may be responsible for 30-40 percent of the cancers in men and 60 percent of those in women.

Winn-Dixie increases dividend rate

Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc. raised its monthly cash dividend rate to 20 cents a share from 18 cents, an 11 percent increase and the 39th straight year of dividend increases, leading all companies on the New York Stock Exchange in consecutive annual dividend increases.

The new payments, which are at an annual rate of $2.40 per share, will be paid July 30, Aug. 31 and Sept. 30 to shareholders of record July 15, Aug. 16, and Sept. 15.

This marks the 48th successive year dividends have been paid by Winn-Dixie which operates 1,222 supermarkets in 13 sunbelt states.

President Bert L. Thomas said the company expects to report a new high in total sales and earnings when final figures are in for fiscal year ending June 30, 1982.

Bits 'n pieces

One of our subscribers mentioned to us how three years ago when he moved to the area, he noted the well kept medians of I-10 and US-90.

Things have changed since then, as all a motorist has to do is travel down our highways and see just how high the grass and weeds are now with apparently little effort being taken by the Mississippi State Highway Department in keeping them down.

We strive to make our communities a cleaner place to live in, and try to get everyone to do their part, and it looks like our political leaders should be leading the way.

We hope the Highway Department will get the mowers after the high grass and weeds on our highways very soon.

Our neighbors in Pass Christian are preparing for St. Paul's Annual Seafood Festival which will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Our longtime friend Dave McCutcheon told us this week that everything is prepared and the seafood should be delicious, as always.

If you like seafood and are out driving around, you may want to stop by the festival for a bowl of gumbo.

We are glad to see the Bay St. Louis Council take action on the apparent broken sewer line in the marsh behind the State Board of Health's office.

We know many residents are leary of eating seafood from the Bay of St. Louis with all the raw sewerage entering adjacent to the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

It has been a long time in coming, but the Bay Council finally agreed to joining the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

It seems to have taken forever for the Council to make up its mind.

We have a big problem in waste treatment, which is apparently no different from the majority of communities.

We are blessed with waters a lot of communities wish they had, and we should take good care of them because they cannot be replaced.

A lot of activities are going on with court now in session.

There are so many cases, it is impossible for them all to be heard in three weeks.

We know the length of court sessions has been extended in recent years, and it looks like more weeks will have to be added in the near future.

Nicholson Avenue could be Champs Elysee of Waveland

Dear Sir:

Not knowing the names and addresses of all the people who may, and should be involved, I take this opportunity of addressing the following to Mayor John Longo, aldermen and all garden clubs and citizens of Waveland.

Have you noticed the difference in the appearance of the area between the street and property lines on Nicholson Avenue from the railroad to the beach and that of the same between the railroad and Highway 90?

It would be a big improvement if the part between the railroad and Highway 90 would be made with the clearance of the weeds to the property line and trees planted all along the sides of the avenue.

This certainly would make entrance to Waveland much more inviting to visitors and would also be appreciated by local citizens.

Cost should be very low if the city would clear the sides of the road and young trees obtained by donations from the nurseries, Mississippi Agriculture Department and others who might desire to help.

Let's get together with the city officials and help improve our City of Waveland.

Yours truly,
Jules P. Dumestre

MUW alumna laments fall of sex barrier in Columbus

July 4, 1982

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

There was a huge funeral in America last Thursday. There were no flowers, no coffin, no taps. But there were solemn faces, clenched teeth, and tears.

Thousands and thousands grieved. Probably the most noticeable mourner was a lady, usually upright, forceful, calm, with her robes flowing gracefully behind her. On Thursday she was broken, hunched over, clutching the tatters of her blindfold, wet from dabbing at her eyes.

A major death had occurred. Justice wept. Mississippi, standing by sorrowfully, moved through the crowd of mourners to reach her friend.

"Justice," she said, as they embraced each other in their grief, "don't weep so. You'll make yourself sick."

"But," Justice replied, "Mississippi, you are the one I worry about. This death is so unfair to you."

"Here you were, leading the nation since 1884 with a marvelous women's university, your legislature willingly spending tax money for nearly a century to produce confident, competent, caring, useful women citizens."

"Here you were, turning out alumnae such as Leonore Prather, who just last Friday became Mississippi's first woman Supreme Court judge; and Eudora Welty, America's first lady of literature; and Dorothy Bush, the secretary of the National Democratic Party."

"Here you were, calmly, quietly, and effectively providing superb education at Mississippi University for Women in Columbus, when the American Civil Liberties Union insisted at the Supreme Court of the United States that a man be enrolled in the MUW nursing school," Justice continued.

"He could have gone to many other Mississippi tax-supported nursing schools. But, no, he had to break down MUW's admission policy."

Mississippi stood by with head bowed, tears flowing anew.

At last she could speak without sobbing.

"Thank you, Justice, for being my friend. You and I have been through so much together, so many troubles."

"Justice, this death is so ironical. You've always stood firmly behind equality."

"Doesn't the Supreme Court realize that's what MUW is all about? Equality for women in a male-dominated society?"

"The only good sign in all of this tragedy," Mississippi went on, "is that men are not allowed into anything but nursing at MUW. Thank goodness for that."

The two continued to pat each other's arms as the funeral cortege broke up, as the last mourners departed.

Only then did they see one last grief-stricken figure kneel down on the cemetery lawn.

It was Liberty, with her torch barely flickering as she raised her arms toward Heaven.

"All I want to know, God," she pleaded, "is why? why? why?"

Justice and Mississippi reached Liberty, pulled her up, consoled her.

"Let's go back to the house," Mississippi said to her friends. "We need to plan for the future."

Cats find haven at Highland Avenue address

Dear Editor:

Unlucky as I am for help, I would like to know who owns Simon Bolivar. I gave him a name to a beautiful male, aristocratic, yellow Tom cat with a golden-plume of a tail when he showed up at my back door for a handout several weeks ago.

The problem is this cat is giving me a guilt complex when he's hungry and I feed him. I feel like a proselyte trying to entice a good cat to leave home by an offering of kibble.

If I don't feed him I feel like a miser, too stingy to divide a 27-cent can of cat food between my own cat, Delton, and this guest.

At this writing Simon Bolivar is in head of a good rubbing down with flea powder, and a lot more good than he's apparently getting.

Simon in a way, I've inquired around the immediate neighborhood and nobody knows who owns him. I wish he were mine.

If the real owner can be found, well, perhaps we can decide what's best for this beautiful creature.

Hospital worker tells of 'being on other side of bed'

Dear Sir:

I have had ample opportunity during the past six months to observe the staff at Hancock General and work as part of the medical service delivery team in our community.

As the hospital social worker, I have always been impressed, but this week, I had the rare opportunity of being "on the other side of the bed."

I was a patient at our hospital this week and that experience, although not one I would want to repeat, really taught me some lessons.

I learned, first hand, how well our hospital functions and how caring every member of the staff can be.

Coming from a "big city" as I do, one can have reservations about small, county hospitals.

And, of course, Hancock General does have its limitations.

But within those limitations, the service and atmosphere were very much conducive to the healing process.

This community is indeed blessed with top-notch medical and ancillary personnel, and I am proud to be a part of this team.

Thanks to all the staff, you were great.

Sincerely,

Research Center atlas gives employment overview

The Mississippi Research and Development Center has recently published a 1982 edition of the "Mississippi Manufacturing Atlas," a description of the geographic distribution of manufacturing plants in Mississippi.

The Atlas features county maps depicting employment of industrial plants for 19 industrial categories.

The atlas was prepared as a reference tool to assist with industrial development efforts. The maps also show companies where their competitors are concentrated, and where complementary products are produced.

Compiled by John V. Hestrick, economic analyst at the R & D Center, the study reveals that the manufacturing industry constitutes the largest manufacturing category in Mississippi with more than 45,000 workers employed at 27 apparel plants.

Apparel plants are found in all but a few counties, with the largest being the Gulfport Company at Brookhaven. The largest textile was in the category (114) textile in the major industrial category.

Transportation equipment is the second largest category, with 15,000 workers employed in 15 plants. The largest plant in this category is the Gulfport Company at Brookhaven.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

A DURABLE AND EASY-TO-BUILD STACKWOOD HOUSE!

Back in 1977, Jack Henstridge built an expensive ($75,000, appraised value) home out of stackwood (also called firewood, cordwood, pilewood, stovewood, stackwall, etc.) for only $10,000, and he detailed the experiment for THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS (in issue 49). By merely stacking 9" long sections of logs on their sides in a mortar matrix (and 6" long chunks for the interior walls), Jack and his wife constructed a unique and expensive house that's still braving the extra-cold winters common to their New Brunswick, Canada homestead.

Stackwood, in case you've never heard of it, is one of the oldest types of construction we know of. And it's a wonder more people haven't rediscovered this unusual type of log-home building, since it offers a number of significant advantages over the more common log construction methods. Such as:

- (1) Simplicity. Anyone who can cut wood with a chain saw, and stack a neat cord, can build a "stackwood wall" house.
- (2) Low cost. Windfalls, trees that are too badly bowed or twisted to be used in a conventional log cabin, "waste" lumber... in short, stuff near any kind of wood can be used to build a stackwood wall, as long as the world is dry.
- (3) Soundproof design. Because the finished walls are so thick—and because the log ends tend to "reflect away" outside noises—the insides of cordwood structures are unusually quiet.
- (4) Fire resistance. The mortar in the wall tends to absorb the heat of combustion, making it all but impossible for a fire to spread.
- (5) No chinking. The mortar is largely self-healing. If a crack should develop, lime will leach into the break and calcify.
- (6) Building efficiency. Once the wall is up, it's finished inside and out.
- (7) Environmental harmony. The edifices are aesthetically pleasing and they blend harmoniously into a natural background.

The main drawback to stackwood construction is that the finished walls have poor insulating properties, primarily because lime mortar passes BTU like the proverbial sieve. The Henstridges have solved that problem, however, by making the walls fairly thick (nine inches) and by "sandwiching" hunks of Styrofoam in the mortar.

After hearing about the "house that Jack built," MOTHER's research staff decided to give cordwood architecture a try by building a stackwood dome greenhouse at our Eco-Village. With the help of visitors to our summer seminars, the crew raised what is (to the best of our knowledge) the world's first such structure. We found this construction method to be labor-intensive but relatively low-cost, especially for folks who have access to free wood. In fact, our Eco-Village researchers were so impressed that they also used the fast and easy technique when building part of the barn that houses our livestock.

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

Question: Is leukemia a cancer of the blood?

ANSWERline: Leukemia is a cancer of the blood-forming tissues. These are in bone marrow, the soft spongy center of the bone which produces red and white blood cells and platelets; and the spleen and lymph nodes which produce a type of white blood cell called lymphocyte. Red blood cells carry oxygen to cells throughout the body; while the white blood cells fight infection, and the platelets control blood clotting and prevent hemorrhaging. All blood-forming tissues daily release millions of each type of cell into one of the body's two circulatory systems—the blood vessels and the lymph system. When leukemia strikes, millions of abnormal, immature white blood cells called leukocytes are released into these circulatory systems. Since these cells are immature, they cannot carry out their basic function of fighting infection. In advanced leukemia the uncontrolled multiplication of abnormal cells results in crowding out the bone marrow's production of normal cells that fight infection, control hemorrhaging and prevent anemia.

Falls can be prevented

More than 2,000,000 Americans are headed for a fall this year. They will tumble off ladders, down stairs, on slippery floors and over furniture, electrical cords, toys, tools, rocks and debris. More than 10,000 of those who fall will suffer fatal injuries, many will be disabled for life.

Those figures were compiled last year by the Combined Insurance Company of America, whose staff is convinced that most falls could be averted through vigilance, proper maintenance and a few basic precautions.

The National Safety Council has found that falls are the most frequent and serious accidents reported in commercial establishments such as restaurants, theaters, stores, hotels and office buildings. The most common home accidents involve falls on stairways, ramps and ladders, which accounted for nearly 1,000,000 hospital emergency room visits last year, according to the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission. Add to that falls on floors, walks and lawns and the figure may come to well over 1,000,000, according to Combined Insurance.

Older people are the most frequent victims of falls. Sometimes because of illness, emotional disturbance, fatigue, inattention or poor vision.

In the home, causes of falls are similar to those in public places—objects left in the way, electrical cords out of place, loose carpeting, spills and so on.

In the hope of helping to reduce the number of accidents involving falls, Combined Insurance offers these suggestions:

- Illuminate all stairways and provide light switches at both the top and bottom. Night lights, which use little electricity, are advisable, particularly in homes with children or older people.
- Stairways should be equipped with handrails on both sides and nonskid treads or carpeting.
- Grab bars, nonskid mats and good lighting should be standard equipment in bathrooms.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

Divorce is experienced by one-third of our population. In addition to the emotional upheaval and legal problems, there is a great deal of financial uncertainty.

An issue that is sometimes neglected in the financial settlement is insurance. Health, life, and property insurance should be considered carefully.

Health insurance coverage, especially if the mother is not eligible for group rates, can be a critical issue. Will she and the children continue to be insured by the father's policy? Individual health insurance rates are often so expensive that a single parent cannot afford them.

Who will be beneficiaries of life insurance policies? Will life insurance needs change? Existing policies must be carefully examined to protect the children's interests. Sometimes a totally new insurance program is the most logical choice.

Divorce increases the need for the right insurance plan for each spouse. The wrong arrangement can end up leaving everyone so plan carefully.

Residents attend workshops

Every summer the University of Southern Mississippi offers workshops for persons who are renewing teaching certificates, going to school to earn a degree, or just want to gain knowledge about a certain subject. Persons from the Waveland area attended Food Service and Day Care Personnel workshops.

Local participants were Mrs. Lewis Klein and Mrs. Mary Ann Seaman. Margaret Parker, of Pearl River, also attended the workshops.

The 1981 Annual School Food Service Personnel and Day Care Personnel workshop involved planning menus, keeping records and comparing products.

THIS OLD HOUSE

Armed with hammers, paintbrushes and power saws, "This Old House" folks are ready to take on the challenge of a 1950s ranch-style tract house in a rebroadcast of the series at 6 p.m., Saturdays, beginning July 17, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The series featuring this particular house aired earlier this year.

Said Russ Morash, series producer, "Our goal is to show viewers how to renovate or improve their home to make better use of existing space. There are a lot of young families on a limited budget who need or want more room but can't afford to move. We'll help them find the room and provide them with the technical means to do the job properly."

The tract house, which became popular during the post-World War II building boom, poses a new challenge to the "This Old House" crew.

"In the series on the other house," said Morash, "space was not a problem. That house was something of an architectural behemoth. Now we have to create space where none presently exists. We have to find ways to expand inward or outward. And we have to do it on a very tight schedule."

Federal agencies urge fishery products export

Four federal agencies, including the U.S. Small Business Administration, are organizing a cooperative effort to boost exports by small businesses.

The effort will revolve around agreements signed by SBA with the International Trade Administration (ITA) and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) of the Department of Commerce and the Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) of the Department of Agriculture.

In signing the agreements, SBA Administrator James C. Sanders said, "We are looking forward to working with these agencies in promoting more small business exporting. The agreements represent another positive step in President Reagan's commitment to small business and his goal of reducing the nation's trade deficit by increasing the number of small firms that market their products and services abroad."

SBA's agreement with ITA is a renewal of a joint effort begun in 1978. SBA's field offices will work closely with ITA personnel to disseminate "how-to" information on small business exporting, encourage small business participation in trade fairs, shows and missions, and co-sponsor exporting conferences.

The ITA also will help train SBA loan officers in the area of exporting finance rules and regulations.

The NOAA agreement stipulates that SBA will, in cooperation with the National Marine Fisheries Service, select 12 small U.S. fishery firms to take part in foreign trade shows designed to help small firms sell fish and shellfish products abroad. The SBA will pay the small firms' trade show participation fees.

Under the agreement signed with FAS, SBA will fund participation and shipping fees connected with foreign trade shows of 20 small firms which produce agricultural products.

For further information on the SBA-ITA agreement, interested persons should contact the nearest SBA or Department of Commerce ITA district office.

For additional information on the SBA-NOAA agreement and the SBA-FAS agreement, interested persons should contact the Office of International Trade, U.S. Small Business Administration, 1411 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20416.

TIPS ON BUYING A USED PICKUP

Here are a few hints to help you test out that used four-wheeler that's caught your eye.

WITH THE TRUCK ON THE RACK: Grasp a front wheel top and bottom, and try to work it back and forth. More than an eighth of an inch play could mean a king-pin replacement bill. Spin all four wheels with the truck out of gear... a metal-to-metal sound on any wheel will likely indicate worn or badly adjusted brakes.

The muffler and the tailpipe should be sound.

Check the frame for bent, warped, or welded spots... and the inside of all the tires for streaks of hydraulic fluid. (These could indicate a leaky wheel cylinder in the brake system.)

WITH THE TRUCK ON THE GROUND: Pull out the engine oil dipstick and check for grit (a sign of excessive engine wear). Watch, too, for oil with a foamy, grayish appearance. It means that water is present, and that's an almost sure sign of a cracked head or block.

Remove the radiator filler cap and dip in a finger. Oil in the water is just as bad as water in the oil. Look over the cooling system for signs of leaks.

If the pickup has been driven just before your inspection, wait as long as possible before starting it again. You can't tell as much from an engine that's already been warmed up as from one that's started cold.

WITH THE TRUCK RUNNING: As you start the vehicle, listen for any unusual noises from the starter. The engine should idle quietly and smoothly.

With the powerplant still idling, walk around to the exhaust and have someone race the engine. A puff or two of black smoke—caused by carbon—shouldn't be considered important. White smoke, on the other hand, probably means the old jalopy needs rings... and that can be expensive.

Climb in the cab and let out the clutch. Do you hear a faint (or not so faint) jingle? If the noise disappears when you let the clutch in, it's a worn ring gear.

Test the lights, turn signals, hand brake, horn, and windshield wipers.

THE TEST DRIVE: Ease into gear and pull away gently. Even with your foot off the throttle, the truck should lug along on the level without bucking and jumping.

Apply the brakes. You should not have to pump the pedal.

If you can find a steep hill, drive up it. Then, on the downhill side, in high gear, take your foot off the throttle. If the truck picks up speed, it's probably low on compression and needs new rings.

DEALING: You'll see the 1979 buy a one-owner truck from a private party. But if you do find an excellent truck offered by a dealer, don't hesitate to bargain with the salesman.

Furthermore, you'll want to see an excellent body and running gear, but with a blown engine, it's not a good buy. Before you make that sort of deal, though, shop around. A good mechanic will give you an exact estimate of the truck's condition, and a reasonable, within your budget, and less than you'd have to pay for a supposedly good condition truck.

Frosh, transfer testing set at Pearl River College

Pearl River College will hold an orientation and testing session for all freshmen and incoming transfer students Tuesday, August 17 beginning 8:30 a.m. in the PRC Coliseum.

According to Enoch Seal Jr., academic dean, the orientation session will be used to set up basic classes in English, reading, and mathematics.

"All students will be tested before registration," Seal said, "this will enable us to determine if the student needs to register for these particular classes."

The basic study classes in English, reading and mathematics are designed to help the student reach norm competency levels for college freshmen. "The course enables the student to catch up," said Seal, "it allows them to become full-fledged college freshmen."

The testing session should last until approximately noon. All scores will be ready by Wednesday afternoon at the time of registration in order that advisors can schedule the correct classes.

Seal said another test will be given the first day of class and the student is evaluated again. If the student does well enough, the instructor may recommend transferring the individual to the regular English, math or reading classes.

If the student still registers below the norm, he or she will be required to take the class for the entire semester.

"It's very important for students to attend the orientation session," said Seal, "because a freshmen or transfer student will not be allowed to register until the tests are taken."

Late registration could mean closed classes and that, of course, could mean a difficult and undesirable schedule.

Pearl River faculty members are scheduled to report to the Pearl River Library at 8:30 a.m. Monday, August 16.

Registration by last name appointment begins with sophomores Wednesday, August 18. Freshmen, transfer and former students begin registering at 1 p.m. and will continue on Thursday, August 19.

Salem Reservation earns national rating

The New Orleans Area Council's Salem Scout Reservation in Hancock County received an "A" national accreditation plaque and rating.

Regional representatives made an objective review of the reservation and facilities as well as a complete appraisal of the staff and program. Mandatory standards included such items as: drinking water supply, refrigeration, physical exams, medical inspections, health log, latrines, waste disposal, state and local permits, licenses and sanitation inspections.

This camp has 1,500 acres of rolling hills and pine trees. Scouts engage in wilderness camping and sleep in two-man tents in well-spaced patrol areas.

For information, contact the Scout Service Center, at 504-337-0790 or any scoutmaster.

DRUG QUIZ

QUESTION—The effect of an alcoholic drink on the body will be increased when a barbiturate is taken at the same time. Which of the following will also increase the effects of alcohol?

- (A) Tranquilizers
- (B) Antihistamines
- (C) Sedatives
- (D) All of the above

Correct answer: D

Tranquilizers, antihistamines, and sedatives all act as depressants on the central nervous system. They intensify each other and when taken together can sometimes bring death. This also is true for tranquilizers, antihistamines, and sedatives.

Higher learning trustees eyeing entry standards

The Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning is considering requiring certain high school units as an admission standard to the state universities.

The board decided to seek input from a statewide cross-section on an initial proposal. This tentative proposal calls for four units of English (all with substantial writing components); three units of mathematics (including algebra I, geometry, and algebra II); three units of science (including one laboratory science); two and one-half units of social sciences (including American history and American government); and one unit of foreign language.

Approval was given by the board to a resolution authorizing the issuance of $4,000,000 in Jackson State University Dormitory Revenue Bonds which establish the permanent financing on the recently completed dormitory.

The unit is designed to house 494 students and should be ready for occupancy by the 1982 fall session.

The bonds, having a 40-year maturity and bearing three percent interest, have been purchased by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Sale of these bonds finalizes the tenure of an agreement executed by the board of trustees with HUD in 1979 to address the need for student housing on the campus of Jackson State University.

The board also approved the recommendation of Mississippi State University to name the new married-graduate student apartment complex Arthur Acres.

The complex, which is nearing completion, consists of seven individual structures, five buildings each housing 26 single students in six apartments, and two buildings each housing 10 married students in seven apartments.

The degree application fee for the University of Mississippi and the University of South Mississippi was increased from $15 to $20 effective fall semester, 1982.

Based on the recommendation of its finance committee, the board approved a $4,335,779 operating budget for the Research and Development Center for fiscal year 1982-83.

The firm of Ernst and Whinney was approved to audit the financial records of Jackson State University for fiscal years 1980, 1981, and 1982. It is the policy of the board of trustees to have an independent audit conducted at any of its budgetary units when either the chief executive officer or the chief financial officer leaves.

The audit will be coordinated with the State Department of Audit so that future audits by that body of these same years will be unnecessary.

The board approved an increase in room and board fees at Mississippi Valley State University from $1,333 to $1,350 per academic year beginning with the fall semester of 1982.

The increase was needed because of increasing costs of utilities and spiraling inflation, the board feels.

The request from Alcorn State University to change the name of the Division of Agriculture and Applied Science to the Division of Agriculture, Research and Applied Science was approved by the board.

This reorganization allows for better administration and supervision of basic and grant functions of the division.

The promotion of Doyle L. Russell from acting vice chancellor for administration to vice chancellor for administration at the University of Mississippi was approved by the board, effective July 1, 1982.

Mississippi State University business administrator and director of the Bureau of Business Administration, Dr. John W. Harrison, was named to the position of vice president of the University of Mississippi.

The board approved the appointment of Dr. David L. Anderson as the new director of the Division of Business and History at Mississippi State University.

Dr. Anderson is currently a professor of economics and director of the Bureau of Business Research, College of Business, West Virginia University. He holds the PhD degree from the University of Virginia.

During the Gulf Park campus meeting, the Board of Supervisors of Jackson and Harrison Counties presented resolutions for commendation to the Board of Trustees for establishing a degree-granting off-campus center on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

This year commemorates the tenth year of operation for degree-granting off-campus centers to serve the continuing educational needs of Mississippians. Dr. Anderson directed the three centers to develop a unified educational program.

At the June meeting, the board approved a $4,000,000 budget for the University of Mississippi and a $1,000,000 budget for the University of South Mississippi.

The size of these budgets is primarily dependent upon the universities' abilities to generate funds for their respective athletic programs; therefore, only small amounts of these budgets consist of educational and general funds.

The board also approved the request of its Athletic Committee to award bonuses to Davey Whitney, head basketball coach, and Lonnie Walker, assistant basketball coach, at Alcorn State.

USM's Blackfriars play comedy-mystery

"Mystery at the Old Fort," a children's comedy-whodunit, is being presented through Saturday by the Blackfriars Drama Society and communication department at Mississippi State University.

The Rosemary G. Musil play will begin at 7:30 p.m. July 15 and 16 and at 1:30 p.m. July 17 in the Student Union Ballroom. Tickets are $1 and $2 and may be purchased at the door.

The plot involves a mother, her two children and maid who arrive at her aunt's house for a holiday, only to find the aunt mysteriously absent and the house apparently deserted. However, they soon discover an Indian hiding in the wardrobe with a tomahawk and the makings of a strange spy plot.

"All adults must be accompanied by children," advises director Dominic J. Cunetto.

The cast includes junior communication major Lisa Smith of Bay St. Louis as "Mrs. Bishop."

You can do several things to save on long distance calls made to points outside Mississippi:

- Take advantage of the one-minute minimum on all interstate long distance calls. There's no longer a three-minute minimum for operator-assisted calls. So now, whether you dial the call yourself or use an operator, if you talk for only one minute, you pay for only one minute. Plan your conversations; you can say a lot in one minute.

- Dial long distance calls nights and weekends when rates are lower. Rates are lowest every night from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m., all day Saturday, and Sunday until 5 p.m.

- Use "800" numbers when possible. There is no charge to you for calls to "800" numbers and a lot of companies make these special numbers available. Many "800" numbers in their advertising or list them in the local directory. If you can't find a listing, call toll-free 1/800/555-1212.

- Dial your own station-to-station interstate "Calling Card" calls and pay less than you would pay for other operator-assisted calls. You can get a Calling Card by phoning your service representative.

It's in the book. Names. Numbers. Addresses. Area codes. Dialing instructions. Even ways to save money. All sorts of valuable information is in the telephone book. And it's all yours. LOOK IN THE BOOK. The more you use it, the more valuable it is.

*An additional service charge applies to operator-assisted, coin, collect, and Calling Card calls.

Narcs gather at Ole Miss for home-grown seminar

Twenty-five narcotics agents from across the South met last week at the nation's only legally grown marijuana site to get firsthand experience on ways to spot domestically grown marijuana.

Agents from Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas and Virginia gathered at The University of Mississippi for a five-day meeting sponsored by the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics to discuss common problems in surveillance for marijuana in the South.

Because of the tropical nature of the Southern climate, narcotics agents in this area have a harder time identifying the illicit growth, said Tom Dial, director of the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics.

"After sending agents to school in California, we found they needed a special set of instructions to cover what was left out," Dial said. "Out there the landscape is mostly brown and a patch of marijuana sticks out like a sore thumb. Here it looks like any other growth and is harder to pick out, so classes like this are very beneficial."

Agents working in the South must pay particular attention to unusual cultivation spots, he explained. As part of the class, agents toured sections of the 5.8-acre marijuana garden, then were flown over the garden for an aerial view.

"Of course, even people who grow marijuana for commercial use don't plant internodes," Dial pointed out. "All the people who are growing know what they're doing, and usually 50-75 plants are as many as they can handle."

Agents also toured laboratories at the school of pharmacy where experts working on the Ole Miss marijuana project analyze samples of the country's controlled marijuana.

These classes are a multi-million dollar operation, Dial said, but with classes such as these, state agencies hope to limit marijuana operations.

A native of New Orleans and prep All-American at Holy Cross High there, Wilson was an All-Southeastern Conference center and captain on the 1967 LSU football squad.

Polk will begin his seventh year at State with the 1983 season. A native of Boston, Mass. and graduate of Grand Canyon College in Phoenix, Ariz., he also holds a master's degree from the University of Arizona.

During his six years at MSU, Polk has taken four teams to the post-season SEC tournament with the 1979 team winning the league championship.

Three of his six Bulldog teams have been involved in NCAA regional play with the 1979 and 1981 teams reaching fifth place nationally.

LADIES CLASS

BLOWN AWAY

A weekend of weather curtailed Bay-Waveland club racing July 10 and 11. All of Saturday's races were cancelled as squalls alternated with dead calm over the Bay.

A spot of sunshine on Sunday morning encouraged the Ladies Class to try a race.

Peggy Dutton with crew Cindy Cranford and Susie Christenson, Chickie Marble with crew Cary Trapani and Kerry Merrigan, and Maline Chamberlain with crew Geneva Carr and Walter Chamberlain rigged their boats and left the harbor in a southerly breeze.

As they reached open water, a squall roared out of the north. Marble capitalized near the end of the front pier.

Dutton made it back into the harbor, but then capsized in a gust clocked at 41 mph, anchoring her mast in the harbor mud.

Chamberlain rode the puff into the harbor, making unplanned contact with a moored boat and the pier on the way.

The race was postponed.

Christenson reassured the skippers to try again. Two juniors were added to the Ladies.

The five boats left the harbor in a dead calm, paddling or under tow. By the start of the race, the wind had risen to 10 knots and by the end of the second leg it was blowing 20.

Christenson shortened the course and finished the race after one triangle. All boats remained upright.

Missy Breath, a junior skipper, won the abbreviated race. Charles A. Breath III and Charles A. Breath IV crewed.

In third place was Richard Reeves, a junior, with crew Bill Reeves and Mark Evans. Peggy Dutton was fourth;

Susie Christenson and Martha Merrigan were her crew.

Chickie Marble finished fifth, with crew Kerry Merrigan and Edgar Santa Cruz. Marble was delayed by the necessity of re-rounding the windward mark after her boat had made contact with it.

No other races were attempted that day.

Judy McKinney of BWYC took second place in the Adams Cup Semi-Finals in Charleston, S.C. during the weekend.

McKinney represented the Gulf Yachting Association in the regatta, competing for the women's national championship with semi-finalists from five other regional yachting associations.

The six-race round robin series was won by Charleston Yacht Club, representing the South Carolina Yachting Association.

The races were sailed in Soling class boats; Liz Merrifield and Mary Ladner crewed. McKinney's finishes were 4-4-3-2-1.

BWYC's Matt Stiefel placed fifth in the Bonus Cup Semi-Finals at Southern Beach, South Carolina, last weekend.

The six-race round robin, a junior championship competition, was sailed in 430 class boats. Harry Chapman crewed for Stiefel.

The regatta was won by Eldon Harvey of SYC, the other GYA entry in the regional event.

A very successful Ball the Blige was held at the club on Saturday night.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duane, chairman; Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fred Fayard Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Albert Flair, Mr. and Mrs. George Prechter, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Parkinson, Ms. and Mrs. Don Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Alan P. Noonan, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. Merrick Rodi, Mrs. Lake Gaudin, Mr. and Mrs. VanSchultz and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones.

Schultz, Adams, Farve join The River squad

Ned Eades, the head baseball coach at Pearl River College, has announced commitments by seven outstanding baseball players to join his already talented squad.

According to the second year PRC coach, first baseman Steve Farve, and outfielder-pitcher Mark Schultz both of St. Stanislaus, and pitcher Scotty Adams of Bay St. Louis have agreed to join the Wildcats.

Out-of-state players moving to Poplarville this fall will also include three from Kentucky and a transfer from Faulkner State Junior College in Bay Minette, Ala.

Right-handed pitcher Eddi Michael played for Faulkner State last year and is now a resident of Picayune, which is in the Pearl River district.

Kentucky players include high school stars John Derk, a third baseman-pitcher from Earlsburg and outfielder Pat Behne of Walton. Outfielder Charles Clifton of Shelbyville is transferring from Moorhead State University.

Eades said the new commitments gives him 25 players for the coming season, including 20 district and five out-of-staters.

The PRC coach, who led the Wildcats to a 28-11 record last year in his college debut, said he has only three slots left on the $2-83 squad.

Twenty games are on tap this fall, including contests against University of Southern Mississippi, University of New Orleans, William Carey and Faulkner State. The regular spring schedule will include 58 games.

Soft crab farming under study

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory has received $9,228 for a study entitled "Evaluation of a Closed Recirculating Seawater System for Production of Soft-Shell Crabs."

Harriet Perry, an associate biologist at the Laboratory, who has done extensive life history and environmental studies of the blue crab, is the principal investigator.

The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium provided $7,450 for the study, which was supplemented by $1,778 in support from the Laboratory.

Perry and John Ogle of the GCRL oyster biology section recently developed a closed system that shows high potential for accommodating shedding crabs. "This study will determine the limits of the capability of the system and further define its operational characteristics," Perry explained.

Perry said the objective of the study is to provide specific data on the maximum operational capacity of a closed blue crab shedding system containing artificial seawater and biological filters.

The salinity of the artificial seawater used in the experiments will be the same as the water from which the crabs are collected. Perry said the advantage of the closed system is that salinity can be controlled, thus stabilizing the environment of the shedding crabs.

Various densities of crabs are to be tested, with each test lasting six days, Perry said. Only "prepeeler" and "peeler" crabs will be used in the investigation.

The GCRL study is a component of a Louisiana State University (LSU) project funded by the Louisiana Sea

Grant Program. Dr. D.D. Culley of the School of Forestry and Wildlife Management at LSU is the principal investigator for the overall project.

Also, Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission is providing the services of a technician and use of its hatchery facility on the north shore of Lake Pontchartrain at Lake Combe, where the study will be conducted. Experienced crabbers in the Lake Combe area will supply the crabs.

The study was funded for seven months but may be extended through June, 1983.

ESPN acquires rights to SEC basketball games

ESPN has acquired exclusive national cable television rights to ten 1982-83 Southeastern Conference basketball games in association with TVS Television Network, the league's syndicator for 19 years.

The games, to be played predominantly on Tuesday evenings, mark the first time ESPN has acquired rights to SEC games. The announcement was made jointly by SEC Commissioner Boyd McWhorter and ESPN Vice President, Programming Robert M. Gutkowski.

"This office is proud of the recent advances in the popularity of SEC basketball. We appreciate the efforts of TVS through 19 years of cooperative programming and are very happy to have ESPN join them in carrying our games in this new era of cable TV."

ESPN is carried on Channel 3 of Hancock Community Cable.

Gutkowski added, "We are pleased to be able to add Southeastern Conference basketball games to ESPN's already strong line-up of the nation's best conferences."

The games will be seen exclusively on ESPN and be produced by The Total Sports Network. The schedule includes January 5, LSU at Kentucky; January 11, Vanderbilt at Alabama; January 18, Alabama at Tennessee; January 25, Georgia at Florida and February 1, Florida at LSU.

Also, February 8, Mississippi at Kentucky; February 15, Georgia at Mississippi State; February 22, Auburn at Tennessee; March 1, Mississippi at Auburn; and March 3, Kentucky at Mississippi.

Sierra Club schedules travel skills workshop

Advanced registration should be made through Carl Smith, 664-4991. A $1 fee will be charged to cover cost of the meeting room.

In addition, the club plans a slide showing on Alaska and regular monthly meetings Thursday, July 22, 7:30 p.m. in the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce.

The presentation, produced by Will and Margi Geddes of Gulfport, during a seven-week excursion in Alaska, will feature fishing, camping and hiking.

Martial arts event set at Singing River

The American Tae Kwon Do Association will hold a regional championship at Singing River Mall Saturday, July 24 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Competitors of all ages will come all over the Gulf Coast to compete for trophies and prizes.

Master Hasegawa, founder of the American Tae Kwon Do Association and referred to as the "Father of Martial Arts" will be a guest at the competition.

Tae Kwon Do is the new "Ancient Martial Art" translated Tae Kwon Do means "Art of the hand and foot" and originally comes from Korea where it is still practiced as a national sport.

The Kwon Do is one of the world's newest martial arts, formally getting its name in 1953. Its roots, however, are based on techniques tested for thousands of years.

WORM FISHING AN ART

A dedicated worm fisherman is an artist. He practices his sport with the delicate skill of a concert pianist, relying upon finesse and knowledge to outwit the fish.

There is more to worm fishing than tossing a gob of them into the water on a hook.

Having "conditioned" worms is vital. Most worms are too soft to stay long on a hook if they're taken directly from moist earth. The anglers in Mercury outdoor boards fishing department overcome this by "hardening" them for a couple of days before using them. Place the worms in a box of straw, sawdust and dry earth. They'll lose moisture, toughen the worms, making them more durable on a hook.

EMERGENCY REPAIRS—Monday afternoon rains resulted in last minute preparation of the Bay High Baseball Field before the start of the 14 and 15-year-old Babe Ruth District games. Parks and Playgrounds employee Shannon Carr, left, is assisted by volunteer Jay Artigues in marking third base line. Games were delayed for 30 minutes while sand was spread on field. Billy Rhodes, recreation supervisor, said volunteer help enabled his staff to make the field playable as prospects looked very poor an hour before contests were to start. Former Alcorn star in Europe, shooting for NBA contract

By BRENT L. COVATTA
A former Waveland resident who still harbors hopes of playing in the National Basketball Association is planning to try once again to make a comeback.

Although former Alcorn University star Ricky Lewis has made all the cuts on his third and final attempt, he knows the Netherlands Basketball team will be awaiting his return on Aug. 12 if he does not make it here.

Like hundreds of other promising athletes who never were selected to play in the NBA, Lewis found he could satisfy his love for the game by going elsewhere.

In this case, a basketball league in Europe has been the answer.

Other players in a similar position have found opportunities in South America or the Philippines almost as rewarding as playing in the USA.

So at 28 years-old and weighing 220 pounds the four year starting power forward for the Rucanor TriStars has been making it in the NBA. Lewis previously played for the Seattle Super Sonics, and Lewis was sent packing in the final cut.

Recruited by San Diego City University, Lewis was first invited to their basketball camp for tryouts. Lewis says he will attend only two weeks. If he doesn't make it this time he'll give up trying.

The frustration of not quite making it has taken a toll on the twice named All American college player who was also selected honorable mention in the NAIA (National Athletic Intercollegiate Association) during his four years at Alcorn University.

It hurts a lot because I know I'm good enough," Lewis stated.

"My game is like Magic (Johnson)," Lewis said.

"Magic's like me. He plays my game. But I think I can shoot better than him. I can pass, shoot and dribble."

His statistics with the TriStars has been impressive.

Last year Lewis scored more than 30 points and 20 rebounds in six of 45 season games. He was second highest scorer and rebounder in the league. He claims he has broken records every year he's played.

After four years in the Netherlands, Lewis noted he has become pretty well settled, with close friends and hobbies to take up his free time.

Twice a week Lewis coaches a boy's and girl's basketball team.

Once a week he also acts as a big brother to several young Netherlands youths.

Since the season lasts eight months, Lewis has the remaining four months to travel or do what he wants.

Each year he usually returns to the Gulf Coast where owns a house in Waveland acquired during the time of his previous marriage to a Bay St. Louis resident.

But hopes of playing for the NBA still linger.

"It's not only the money, it's being at home and having my people be able to see me on TV."

"I don't like to have to judge myself. I'd like them to be able to do that. Every time I come home I've got to tell the story over and over again. The people I know here really don't know what I'm doing."

"Other than that, I'm blessed to be doing what I'm doing. I like the game and I like to play."

TENNIS TOPICS

SURPRISING BUT TRUE!

Although a game similar to tennis was being played by Frenchmen as early as the 1400s, it wasn't until 1874 that the game was first played in the United States.

Since then, tennis has developed rapidly, and each year thousands of tournaments for players of all ages and levels of ability, including unranked players, are held.

You don't have to be a champion or a professional to play the tennis circuit. There are plenty of opportunities for the unranked recreational player, including senior citizens, and even children. Tennis is a game that can be played by anyone, anywhere, and at any time.

Today's tennis world offers a broad range of events for various age groups and amateur players.

Today's tennis world offers a broad range of events for various age groups and amateur players.

There is also a national amateur division for players of all ages, an extensive circuit of professional "satellite" tournaments, and several world-class professional events.

If you play tennis, you might like to consider becoming a part of the USTA's future. You'll be able to play in USTA sanctioned tournaments and the national league tennis program, and receive many other benefits as well. A free brochure is available by writing to USTA, 51 E. 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

FACTS & FIGURES

Very few motorcycle accidents happen from the rear. Nearly two-thirds of them occur right in front of the rider. And, another 32 percent of the accidents involve the rider being hit from the side. Only seven percent of the accidents studied involved a rider being hit from behind.

The Motorcycle Safety Foundation warns that strong gusty winds can be a hazard for motorcyclists. A rider can actually be moved across a whole lane of traffic if not prepared to handle the sudden wind. Motorists should be aware of this fact when they are crossing stretches of exposed roadway along with motorcyclists.
